"He said to them, 'The harvest is abundant, but the laborers are few...'" Luke 10:2 As Catholics we are all called to serve. However, many of us are unsure of what our charisms or gifts from the Holy Spirit are to help build God's Church. Through prayer we are able to discern how God is calling us. The next time your pastor or fellow parishioner asks you to join a service, ask God first, if that is what He wants you to do with your gifts.

Saints of the Roman Canon: Sts. Bartholomew, Matthew, & Simon

St. Bartholomew is probably the Nathaniel mentioned in the Gospel, who was led to the Lord by Philip. He preached in Arabia Felix, in India and in Greater Armenia, where at Albanopolis he was flayed alive and decapitated. Relics of his holy body are preserved under the high altar of the Church of St. Bartholomew, in the isle of the Tiber, at Rome. The Emperor Otto III brought them to this church built by himself. He is often represented with a knife in his hand, as the instrument of his cruel death.

St. Matthew is both Apostle and Evangelist. He was a publican when the Lord called him. Of his apostolic labors almost nothing reliable is known. Arabia and Ethiopia are specially mentioned as the field of his zeal. According to some authors he was burned alive, according to others he was killed with a spear. Since A. D. 930 his holy body has reposed in the metropolitan church at Salerno (a magnificent structure erected by Robert Guiscard), where he is also honored as the patron of the city.

St. Simon, the Zealot, is in the veneration of the Church connected with St. Judas Thaddeus, who was a brother of St. James the Less. Both consumed and sacrificed their lives by their labors in Mesopotamia and Persia, where Simon was cut in two with a sword and Judas was shot to death with arrows. Their holy bodies repose in the cathedral of St. Peter in Rome. Here the record of the Apostles closes, that the holy number twelve, be not exceeded. For the number twelve is symbolical "of the universality of the Church of Christ, which extends to the four quarters of the world, in the unity of faith in the triune God. Hence the heavenly city Jerusalem, this figure of the Church of Christ in its completion, has four walls and in each wall three portals, the twelve entrances being built upon twelve precious stones which bear the names of the twelve Apostles of the Lamb" (Apoc. 21). The Apostles not only scattered the seed of the divine word, but they labored to bring it to maturity by watering it with the sweat of their brow and fructifying it by shedding their hearts' blood. Built and resting upon the chief cornerstone Christ, the Apostles have thus become the foundation of the Church, which is called Apostolic.
